£5,000 ON A GENERAL.

LUCKY ACT OF LAD OF 18.

"Daily Chronicle" special correspondent, Jones, says:—From an official source I learn 50-odd also another circumstance surrounding the death of General Von Buelow at the battle of Hasselt.

At this battle a lad of 18, standing alone in a mass of dead bodies, saw about 900 yards distant an officer studying a map.

The youngster crawled quietly amongst the corpses of his comrades until he was within 400 yards of the officer. Then he took careful aim and fired. The officer fell dead.

Rushing up to the body, the Belgian discovered to his surprise that it was that of General Von Buelow. Taking off the General's boots and donning his uniform, he managed to pass through the German lines. As he approached the Belgian Army he discarded the German helmet and put on his own cap in fear that he might be shot.

Subsequent examination of Von Buelow's garments led to German notes to the value of 135,000 francs (£5,400) being found in the vest pocket, and this money King Albert has turned over to the Red Cross organisation.

In the jacket was a secret pocket containing memoranda full of interesting details about the battlefield and the future intentions of the Germans.

On hearing of the lad's brave deed, King Albert, after presenting him with the dead General's boots and pocket book, gave him on the spot the order of the Knight of Leopold.

MURDEROUS MINES.

HULL TRAWLER BLOWN UP.

SKIPPER AND ONE HAND LOST.

The trawler Imperialist, of Hull, was sunk by a mine off the East Coast at midnight, and the skipper, Joseph Wood, aged 43, and a deck hand named Thomas Jackson, lost their lives. J. Gibbs, the mate, and nine other hands were picked up this morning by the trawler Rhodesia and landed at North Shields. The Imperialist sank within three minutes of being struck. The lifeboat was thrown into the sea and the men jumped in after it.

The Imperialist was recently concerned with three other Hull trawlers in a big salvage off the West Coast of Scotland. The skipper, Joe Wood, is well-known amongst the fishermen of Hull.

The Hull trawler Imperialist was an Icelandic boat, and she carried the usual crew. We understand that the owners, who are deeply grieved at the disaster, that the information they have up to the present received is that ten men are saved and two men lost. The vessel is owned by the Imperial Steam Fishing Co., and the skipper, Mr Joe Wood, who lives in West Hull, was one of the leading practically known popular skippers in the port.

THE CREW.

The "Mail" is able to give a list of the crew of the Imperialist:—Skipper, Mr Joe Wood; mate, J. Gibbs; boatswain, J. Dunham; second hand, C. Berg; cook, W. Bryan; spare hand, F. Mowatt; spare hand, Bull; spare hand, J. Wood; deck hand, T. Jackson; chief engineer, Dimbleby; second engineer, A. Johnson; trimmer, E. Harbord.

Skipper Wood is a married man, and Mrs Wood is staying at Wilhelmena. The owners under immediate consideration the distressing news, sent Mr Jackson, the port agent, to Wilhelmena in a taxicab to break the sad news to the widow.

FISHERMEN AND NORTH SEA MINES.

A meeting of the Grimsby trawler owners was held to-day for the purpose of considering the situation with regard to the casualties amongst the fishing fleets due to mines in the North Sea. The question was discussed as to whether the fishing should be suspended. It was pointed out that a large number of fishermen were refusing to go to sea owing to the great risk involved, and it was decided that any owner who could secure a crew should be at liberty to sail his vessels. No pressure is to be put upon fishermen to go to sea.

SERVIAN SUCCESSES.

NISH, September 2nd.

This afternoon the enemy fired several shots from their artillery on the heights of Bejanja. No damage or casualties. The enemy in several parts of the Serbian front. The Montenegrins have repulsed the attack by the enemy near Gradisca.

NISH September 3rd.

Nothing of importance is reported from any quarter. Yesterday at 10 o'clock in the morning an enemy's aeroplane flew over Valievo and threw two bombs upon the town. The fell upon the Hospital of the Red Cross flag was hoisted. Three bombs are of no effect and did no damage, nor, on account of their construction, can they do so.

WHY LOUVAIN WAS BURNT.

A Belgian refugee, speaking at the Salvation Army Citadel, Anlaby road, on Sunday afternoon, stated that the cause of the burning of Louvain was that the Germans had been fired upon, drinking and became very drunk. While under the influence of drink they fired upon their own comrades, and when the troops found out they opened fire to the city by dropping bulls containing inflammable spirits.

FOOTBALL AND RECRUITING.

ADDRESSING HULL CROWDS.

Soccer stirring recruiting speeches were made on Saturday evening at the Hull City and Hull football matches. The speakers included Colonel Lambert Winter, chairman of the East Riding Territorial Association, who made a plea as to the pay of the young men joining the Commercial, Trades, and Athletics' Battalions. He pointed out that at present they were being billeted at home, and in consideration of this each man received 3s a day in addition to his ordinary pay. The Commercial Battalion is now nearly full, and the young men can be distinguished by a scarlet worn on their sleeves.

Mr J. Spring, chairman of the Hull City Club, expressed the hope that a great number of recruits would be forthcoming. He said certain that the Allied Army would come out on top in the finish.

NIGHT AND RIGHT.

The Sheriff (Mr Kirk Ohlson), chairman of the Recruiting Committee, stated that King Lear had had gone into this war to support other countries to which she had obligations. If Germany had been permitted to defeat France she would have been good her angst against England, for there was no doubt Germany had been preparing for this war a score of years. The Sheriff dealt with the mine laying in the North Sea, which had been going on for months, for it seemed by some mechanical arrangement they did not come to the top of the water till they had been down some time. Germany had been described as a cultured nation, but their culture seemed to have consisted in killing women and children. Other outrages had been committed by the Germans of which he was ashamed to speak. They had to prove to the Kaiser that might was not right. From an English man's point of view right alone was might. They must endeavour to nullify the strength of the Germans by recruiting.

The Sheriff commended the circulation of leaflets by the Germans with the object of winning the sympathy of the neutral countries. He earnestly appealed to the young men to show that Southern men were behind hand in helping their country in its hour of need, and when the call came, they must be ready, and there must see that the German menace was destroyed.

APPEAL FOR THE "OLD" MEN.

Mr J. B. Bell delivered a stirring speech, appealing to the people of Hull to support the men. "Personally, he should like to see the age limit increased so that the elder men would be able to show where their duty lay. The nation was providing the means whereby hunger would not enter the home. The distress was common one, and in this war cause the barriers over class must all be broken down. They were not asking the young men to forgo their pleasures, but instead of singing "Britannia rules the waves," whilst they were fighting with the Navy, they should be recalling that "England expects every man will do his duty." Any girl, he thought, would be proud to be seen in the company of a young fellow who had not offered his services to his country, and wives should do nothing to prevent their husbands, if eligible, from making their stand beside the colours.

Colonel Wilson expressed the hope that young men would rally to the country's call, and avenge those gallant men who had been killed or wounded in Belgium in supporting their country. They had to wipe out the insult cast upon them by the Kaiser. He was too old to serve, but was glad his family was represented at the front.

Mr A. J. Boynton, the president of the Hull F.C., introduced the speakers, who included Colonel Jackson, at the Hull Ground, and an enthusiastic meeting was held.

WITHERNSEA SOLDIERS AT FOOTBALL

A football match was played at Withernsea on Saturday between the F and G Companies, Hunts, Cyclist Battalion, the G Company playing the victors by two goals to nil. Bandsman Mahon displayed fine forms, and Col.-Sergt. Baxter gave a creditable exhibition. Corpl. Thorley was one of the chief supporters of the F Company, and Corpl. Elbert also played a good game. Col.-Sergt. Chesterfield ably manipulated the whistle. The proceeds—£1 9s 9d—were for the Prince of Wales's Fund.—A big match has been arranged for next Saturday between the soldiers and Withernsea, for the same fund.

HOW THE PATHFINDER FOUNDERED.

VESSELS RACE TO THE RESCUE.

DESTROYED IN FOUR MINUTES.

A Press Association Dunbar correspondent telegraphing in respect of the disaster to the Pathfinder say that the prevailing clear atmosphere conditions afford every opportunity for witnessing the movements of the war vessels fully 20 miles seaward, and several people report having seen the disaster through their telescopes. The station officer at St. Abbs signalling station was the first to make the official intimation that the warship had struck a mine, and he telephoned to the lifeboat officials to have the St. Abbs lifeboat launched. This was instantly done, and following in the lifeboat's train were a number of steam and motor fishing boats, all of which dashed to the spot. In his statement to Messrs William Bertram and Shields, the honorary secretary, second coxswain Jas. Gibson, who was in charge, states on nearing the spot where the Pathfinder had been blown up, he came upon an EXTENSIVE STRETCH OF WRECKAGE.

In fact, the water was densely strewn for about a mile and a half. This was of every conceivable description, and most of it was little larger than a man's leg. There were any number of boxes, packets, cases, parcels, books, stockings, letters, photos, and books, which had been cast into the sea with the blowing up of the warship. So terrible was the explosion that the Pathfinder was practically blown to pieces. In about four minutes all trace of her was lost save a wreckage stream over the surface. A sad memento of the disaster was the finding floating on the water of the ship's Bible and the other of a child's prayer book, both leaves were read by the coxsuain or cap. Gibson. The Pathfinder had been on patrol duty patrolling the Firth Coast, and only a few hours earlier was seen steaming little more than a mile off Scrabbs Head. The prevailing belief is that she came upon a mine which had been cast out of the North Sea, as trading vessels have been seen daily passing near the same area for nearly a fortnight. The Pathfinder was 2,940 tons displacement of 2,6, and was commanded by Captain Francis Pearce. The disaster was observed by eye-witnesses during their lookout path. They saw the vessel through their field glasses emitting columns of smoke, and almost immediately afterwards the loss of the vessel was observed towering high out of the water, she

WENT DOWN WITH STARTLING SUDDENNESS.

From Dunbar the disaster was plainly seen by numerous officers doing duty along the coast. Mr Fairbairn, coxswain of the lifeboat, saw the vessel shoot up a huge column of smoke and flame. The vessel sank immediately afterwards. It has been gathered that about ninety of the wounded and dead, including officers and the officer in command, Captain Francis Pearce, were picked up by torpedo destroyers previous to the arrival of the St. Abbs lifeboat and several fishing vessels. Two were taken by sea to hospitals in the Firth, along with five or six corpses of sailors by torpedo-destroyers. Despite a careful search to-day, no further bodies have been picked up.

232 LOST.

It is believed the number lost is 232. The survivors of the disaster were landed at Queensferry by the steam ship Tyne. It is understood it states that the Pathfinder's crew numbered 264, and that there were only 32 survivors. Those referred to the Tyne. Of these sixteen were wounded and three died on the way to Queensferry, where other wounded men were taken to hospital.

The story as amended is published without objection by the Press Bureau, which accepts no responsibility for its accuracy.

A GRUESOME SEARCH.

A further search to-day off the Dunbar states that, despite difficulties attendant on torpedo destroyers, a wide stretch of water near the scene of the disaster, no further bodies have been recovered from the Pathfinder. The whole coast is to-day strewn with wreckage. Torpedo destroyers continue to patrol the coast.

GERMAN WANTS TO ENLIST.

At Liverpool to-day, Wilhelm Mueller, a German, was sent to three months' imprisonment for having made a false declaration in two attestations for the British Army.

GERMAN'S JOURNEY FROM HULL

Paul Heinecke, a German, was, at Liverpool to-day, sentenced to six months' imprisonment for travelling from Hull to Liverpool without permission.

GERMANS & JAPANESE PRISONERS

Shortly before Japan's war declaration the greater number of Japanese living in Germany secretly left. The German papers now say that many Japanese were secretly conveyed away, as on the day of declaration of war the frontier was closed to Japanese. About 600 have been interned, mostly students at German universities. They will be kept prisoners till the end of the war.

HULL TRAMWAY EMPLOYES.

CORPORATION AND ENLISTING.

Between 50 and 60 employes in the Hull Tramway service are helping their country in the branch or other of the service. There has been some controversy in regard to the action of the Corporation with regard to these employes, and upon inquiry from Mr McCombe (Tramways Managers) the "Mail" was informed that in every case they are making up a man's pay so that a man's pay is enabling time. The arrangements would also be kept open. Singularly enough, there are more men in the Army than in the Tramway service.

AN APPEAL TO SPORTSMEN BY LORD ROBERTS.

There are many sportsmen in Great Britain who, for various reasons, are unable to take the field for active service. I appeal to those who possess race glasses, field glasses, or stalking glasses, to render a real service to those who are going to the front by giving them the use of good glasses.

If the owner's name is engraved upon the glasses, every effort will be made to restore them to the owners at the conclusion of the war.

Great care will be taken over the distribution of the glasses amongst the officers.

Those who are willing to help their fellow countrymen in the way suggested should send their glasses without delay to

The Secretary, National Service League, 72, Victoria street, S.W.

ROBERTS. F.M.

TROOPS SERVING AT HOME.

The address of all telegrams, letters, and other postal packets for the Troops serving at home and those troops serving at home should include (a) regimental number, (b) rank, (c) name, (d) regiment (or other battery, or company, or) battalion, regiment (or other unit), staff appointment, or department, (f) name of place at which the unit is stationed. The address should be written in the mode of addressing a letter to a soldier serving with his own unit, as

769 Private A. JONES,
B Company,
2nd Bn. The Lincolnshire Regt.
Aldershot Camp, Hants.

Special care should be exercised in addressing correspondence for the Regular regimental officers, and they must not be detached from their units and regiments on staff appointments. The following example is given:—

164 Corporal F. SMITH,
Yeomanry,
Attached to Headquarters — Division,
Salisbury.

In the event of any person wishing to communicate with a soldier serving at home and not knowing the place where he is stationed, the address above should be used, but as fully as possible, the words "Home Defence" should be substituted for the name of the unit. The addressee is known to be serving in Scotland or Ireland the address "Home Defence, Edinburgh," or "Home Defence, Dublin," as the case may be, should be used.

By command of the Postmaster-General.

LETTER FROM FLAMBOROUGH SOLDIER.

A letter has been received from Aaron Raines, the youngest son of Mr and Mrs A. Raines, Butterwick, Flamborough, who is now in the Army in France. His only two brothers are members of the Territorial Force, and both have volunteered for foreign service. His mother, asked if he had left his parents, said: "I wish I had other three lads to fight for King and country." The letter reads:—"I am in the best of health over here. I had letter from Tom just before I left Aldershot, and it seems as though he is having a good time. I'm plenty of fruit about the fields all round. The villagers are very good, kind people. Cyril Cyril Gardner (of Bempton) is at the same place, so we are having the time of our lives. We are not allowed out of our ranks on the fields here unless on duty. I am not allowed to give a the address or any particulars of where we are situated. We get plenty of good rations."

TEN GRIMSBY TRAWLERS

CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS.

Our Grimsby correspondent telephoned this afternoon that the following is the list of Grimsby trawlers captured by the Germans:—Argonaut, Lorelei, Harrier, Chameleon, Pegasus, Pelleox, Rideo, Rhine, Seti, and Valiant.

HULL LICENSING ORDER.

PUBLIC HOUSES TO CLOSE AT 9 P.M.

The Hull Licensing Justices, at a meeting this afternoon, decided to put into operation in Hull the order of the Central Licensing Control (Temporary Restriction) Act, 1914, which came into force on August 31st, and gives justices power, upon the recommendation of the Chief of Police, to order from September 4th the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquor upon the premises of all persons holding retailers' licences, and also all registered clubs to be suspended at night, at 9 p.m., during the present war, and for one month after the close of the war

RECRUITING AT CITY HALL

The City Hall has been used to-day as a central recruiting depot with great success. A steady stream of recruits has been dealt with, and the arrangements are in charge of Colonel Stanley. The clerical staff is under Mr Douglas Bond. The general public have taken a great interest in the proceedings, and a large crowd have been watching recruits arriving all day. A most excellent class of men have come forward. Several thousand paraded the city on day, and the night around great enthusiasm.

Much interest was displayed in the general public around the Paragon Station this afternoon, when a number of fresh recruits departed for York and other places in Yorkshire.

COMMERCIAL BATTALION "FULL UP."

The 7th Hull East Yorkshire Regiment (Commercial) was by this afternoon full up, over 1,000 young men having enlisted. About 750 paraded the streets of the city this afternoon, and made quite an imposing sight. About 150 enlisted to-day. Major Carver is the recruiting officer, and he accompanied them.

The City Hall will be again thrown open for recruiting after the meeting to-night.

The Hull Commercial Battalion went for a considerable march this afternoon. Close upon a thousand strong, with Major W. H. Carver, the "citizen army" made a fine impression in the streets.

THE WILSON LINER HULL.

CREW ALL WELL.

A message has been received in Hull by relatives from Hamburg, via Rotterdam, that the crew of the Wilson liner Hull, which was arrested by the Germans, are all well, and that they are being well treated.

TO-DAY'S WEST HULL RECRUITING

"The Mail" was informed late this afternoon that 100 men had enlisted during the day at Wenlock Barracks.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT WOUNDED

The King and Queen visited the wounded soldiers at St. Thomas' Hospital this afternoon, spending about one and a half hours in the wards, and making many sympathetic inquiries as to the progress of patients.

THE GERMAN SEA-KING!

A paltry German Province ne'er shall Little England be.
The German Ocean now, we know, "Tis mine, the grey North Sea.

PATRIOTISM OF HULL DRAPERS.

The drapers of Hull appear to be setting a good example to other trades. We understand Hudson's, Ltd., of Paragon-street, have undertaken to make up the full salary of married men who enlist, less Army pay, to 60s per week, and to make up the pay of all single men to half their usual wages; exceptional cases of the latter to be considered on their merits.

We believe seven or eight of their men have already joined.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

"Is it to be honour of the order that the name of H.M. William II., German Emperor, should remain enrolled among the Knights of the most noble order of the Garter?"—Perpetual to-day.

"CURSED BE MY COUNTRY."

From documents found on a German soldier slain in battle, it appears that he was a certain Voitek (Johann-Roman) born May 21, 1871, at Dratzig, Prussia. There are also several letters, of which the following are extracts:—

"I beg of you, Madame X, to help me out of this misfortune. I am an honest man; my crime is that I am a German. Cursed be my country."

"God protects France. The Germans will be beaten because they are making war unjustly, and respect neither the people's rights nor any kind of humanity, and God will not protect these barbarians.

SECOND NORTHUMBRIAN BRIGADE R.F.A. (T.).

1st EAST RIDING BATTERY.

In consequence of over 60 per cent. of this Battery having enlisted for foreign service, the men are required to complete the establishment. They would be required to enlist for the period of the war, with the obligation to serve anywhere abroad; and must be under 19 years of age. Further particulars can be obtained at Wenlock Barracks, Anlaby-road, Hull.

R.F.A. Depot, Wimbledon. Barracks Anlaby-road, Hull, Sept. 5th, 1914.

WAR ITEMS.

At Portsmouth to-day, Engar Peterson (20) was remanded on a charge of having infringed the Aliens Restriction Order. It was stated that the prisoner, who was a German, had registered himself as a Russian Pole, and that the police found in his lodgings a plan of Portsmouth Harbour and a camera with undeveloped plates.

There has been a great increase in recruiting at Birmingham to-day. Very large numbers have presented themselves. It is estimated that at least 20,000 men have joined the Birmingham Army either as ordinary recruits, or in companies of professional or non-manual workers. Many of the large employers of labour are discharging men between the ages of 35 and 45, and are encouraging them with other men obtained through the Labour Exchanges.

ALD. FELDMAN'S INDISPOSITION.

At a meeting of the Hull City Council this afternoon the Lord Mayor (Mr J. H. Hargreaves) made reference to Alderman Feldman, who, he was sorry to hear, was seriously ill at Harrogate. He had that morning received a report which was very satisfactory. He proposed a resolution expressing regret at Alderman Feldman's indisposition, and hope for his early restoration to health.

Alderman Jarman seconded the resolution, which was carried.

Withernsea Wedding.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The marriage took place at St. Nicholas's Church, Withernsea, this afternoon, of Lieutenant, of Miss Cecie Turner, daughter of Mr and Mrs William Turner, of Stonedelph, Withernsea, formerly of Lincoln, and Mrs Arthur Marshall, of Bradford.

Owing to a large number of relatives of both parties being at the war the ceremony was a quiet one. Mr Bromwich attended her sister as bridesmaid, and Mr Clair Marshall, of Bradford, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The Vicar of Aldbrough, Rev R. Seymour officiated. The bride was becomingly attired in French grey, with hat to match.
